KEEPING COMMUNITY STRONG

ANNUAL REPORT 2014 - 2015

FROM THE PRESIDENT AND EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR

KEEPING COMMUNITY STRONG

Dear Friends,

As we embark on our 166th year, it is with deep appreciation that we present our Annual Report for 2014-15.

From first steps to last words, JFCS helped find solutions to the problems of 78,000 children, families, and elderly throughout the Bay Area.

The achievements of JFCS have broken all records and transcended all our service and fundraising goals—with your essential involvement.

With the launch of our new Center for Dementia Care and our Palliative Care Program, JFCS has created new models for care under the umbrella of JFCS' Seniors At Home. We are gratified to be the Bay Area's premier provider of senior care—serving more than 16,000 last year alone, a new record.

For children and teens, JFCS' popular Parents Place, with centers in every county we serve, has earned a well-deserved national reputation for helping parents successfully raise their children. Our Center for Special Needs has also grown rapidly to serve more children than ever before—helping parents to find expert answers and children to blossom.

For every personal problem at any age, JFCS is here to respond, and no one is turned away because they cannot afford to pay.

How is this possible? Because of the outpouring of financial contributions from our amazing and generous community.

Our focus is not only on this year but also on the next 166 years! To ensure the long-term financial viability of JFCS, our forward-thinking Board of Directors embarked on a $100 million Family Matters Endowment Campaign. In this regard we have also broken records. Through bequests, planned gifts, and cash donations, we have raised $58 million toward our $100 million goal.

Your involvement demonstrates what a community can accomplish when it comes together on behalf of values in which we all deeply believe.

Thank you for your trust, your support, and your kindness. We are honored to serve you.

With warm regards,

When Sarah contacted Seniors At Home’s Center for Dementia Care she was at her wit’s end.

Both she and her husband Dave were struggling with his Lewy Body Dementia. As Dave’s primary caregiver, Sarah was tearful, frustrated, and completely overwhelmed. Dave’s moods were not predictable and she never knew if it was going to be a good day or a bad day.

Sarah worked with a geriatric and dementia care specialist who gave her new ways to communicate with Dave and to notice his specific emotional triggers. A trained caregiver also started helping a few days a week and Sarah got a break to take care of her own health needs. Thanks to the expert advice and emotional support, Sarah is now much more confident in her caregiving skills and Dave is doing much better.

Right: Maysie and Kendra,
JFCS Parents Place clients

Maysie, 6, and Kendra, 14, are sisters living on the Peninsula. It was a very hard year for Kendra. Right when she started high school, a friend in her circle committed suicide and Kendra suddenly wasn't doing well socially or academically. Alarmed, her parents, Elisa and Daniel, contacted JFCS' Parents Place for help.

Elisa had visited Parents Place many times when Maysie, who has Down Syndrome, was a toddler. "Dan and I thought we had been through the worst after Maysie was born and I went through postpartum depression, but it was horrible seeing our teen lose her way."

A children's clinical therapist at Parents Place worked with Kendra as she encountered her own depression and feelings of inadequacy. Now she is back to being herself and an amazing big sister—while also figuring out who she is as a young woman.

Steven

CLEANERIFIC — SOCIAL ENTERPRISE PROGRAM creates jobs for the unemployed and offers job training, health benefits, and support for motivated workers while providing superior “green” cleaning services for homes and businesses.

Right: Steven, JFCS Adult Services client

Steven, an architect and father, first called JFCS when his medical issues became debilitating. He lost his job and to make matters worse, he and his wife had just divorced. Steven's health further deteriorated as his savings was spent paying bills. At 52 he says, "I was totally self-sufficient my whole life, until I had these health issues."

Since calling JFCS, Steven has benefited from the food pantry and food vouchers, rental assistance, and, most importantly, case management. The JFCS Clinical Care Team has been his advocate and cheerleader, providing emotional support while guiding Steven to create practical short- and long-term financial goals. Now Steven's chronic health issue has stabilized, and he is paying off his debts and focusing his energy on landing another job.

Nikki Bambauer and Justin Meyer were University Fellows with JFCS Holocaust Center in the 2014-2015 academic year.

“It has been rewarding to be able to work alongside students as they confront the issue of genocide and its lasting effects on the world. Helping them grapple with the question ‘how could this happen?’ has provided me with teaching skills I will need when I pursue a doctorate en route to becoming a professor. I am very thankful for the opportunities that the University Fellowship program has provided me.”
